Our Philosophy

The bible teaches us that Jesus fashioned himself as a servant, in that, He gave His life for us in fulfilling the will of His father. Those who have been buried and resurrected with Christ, are united with Him and have become ambassadors for Him in sharing the good news about His love, compassion, and saving grace for mankind.

“And He said unto them, go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.”
Mark 16:15

AIHC School of Biblical Studies is a major entity of the Association of Independent Holiness Churches which provides education and training for individuals who have devoted their life to service.

Our mission is to prepare students for a life of service in the ministry of our Lord with emphasis on biblical teachings and practical ministry, which affirms the school’s commitment to equip leaders to work in their local churches and communities.

AIHC School of Biblical Studies is established on communal values and biblical principles that understand the importance of students being prepared to face the challenges of the world with boldness and confidence in our Lord Jesus Christ. Its established guidelines seek to foster an environment that will encourage students to develop a deeper and more mature love for God and His ministry.

The school holds every matriculant of our program, accountable and responsible for clearly understanding the purpose, objectives, and values stated in our course catalog. In addition, students are to stay focused and in tune with God’s purpose for their lives and to allow themselves to be enriched by the biblical teachings and principles of God’s word.

Academic Life

Attendance

AIHC School of Biblical Studies expects all students to attend all lectures, field experience sessions, and complete practicum hours. Student classes and field experience sessions are scheduled on Thursday nights from 6:30 p.m.-9:00 p.m. Practicum hours are completed on various days. Arrangements to complete practicum hours are made between the student and the designated party who is responsible for providing those hours. Verification of those hours with a signature must be submitted to the Administration office.

It is understood that unexpected circumstances can occur that may result in an absence. It is the student's responsibility to get all required materials and assignments from any missed class. Permission to make up work can be granted by professors for reasonable cause. It is also the student's responsibility to determine what each professor requires.

1. Other Absences

Students who miss class due to illness, accident or any catastrophic event such as a house fire or a death of a loved one, should notify the dean and professor as soon as possible. Students will be required to provide documentation. They must also work with their professors to develop a plan to make up missed work.

2. Extended Absences

If you have a medical condition that requires an extended absence from school during the first, second, or third trimester and you anticipate returning to school during that term, please notify the Dean and your professors immediately. We will need this notification in writing along with a copy of your medical statement. This notification will allow us to make accommodations for you concerning missed work. Please note that due to the format of our courses or the length of time away from a course, you may not have the option to make up the missed work. In this case, you will be encouraged to withdraw from the course or receive an incomplete.

3. Unexcused Absences

Failure to notify your professor or academic dean of a missed day is automatically considered an unexcused absence. Three consecutive unexcused absences will result in an automatic withdrawal from AIHC School of Biblical Studies.

4. Tardiness

A student is considered tardy if he or she arrives in class after the attendance is recorded or has begun class or if he leaves before the class hour is completed. Three (3) tardies are counted as one absence.

Conditions for Readmission:

A student who withdraws from the school year based on medical reasons or an unforeseen event may apply for readmission.

A student who receives an automatic withdrawal due to unexcused absences and wants to reapply to AIHC School of Biblical Studies must notify in writing his or her reason for the absences and lack of notification for those absences. After careful evaluation, a student may be granted permission to apply for readmission. If a student is granted readmission to AIHC School of Biblical Studies, the student will be placed on attendance probation for one term of enrollment, in which the student will not be allowed any unexcused absences during that term.

Grading Scale

Refer to the Course Catalog

Academic Probation

Students whose cumulative grade point average falls below 2.0 (C average), after the 1st term, will be placed on academic probation. Since the college's academic year is divided in three terms, the academic dean and faculty will review each student's academic record and devise a plan to assist students improve their academic standing (i.e., participate in programs).

Failure to comply with the conditions of Probation may result in Academic Dismissal.

After a one year of academic dismissal, students can reapply and be admitted on an individual basis.

Academic Integrity

AIHC School of Biblical Studies expects that all students will make choices that will reflect integrity and responsible behavior. The school understands that you are working adults and may feel pressured and overwhelmed to complete assignments. However, AIHC School of Biblical Studies still expects you to approach your work with honesty, trust the value of your own intellect, and give your best.

School officials ask that all students avoid the following behaviors:

Collaboration- Student submits a paper that contains another student's ideas or identical to another student's paper.

Plagiarism- Student submits a paper that contains someone's else ideas or identical to published or unpublished material without proper documentation.

Cheating- Student improperly using notes, books, another student's test, or other aids during examination.

Students guilty of any of the above behaviors will be addressed appropriately.

Please refer to the course catalog regarding the Academic Integrity violations, appeals for misconduct, and conditions for readmission

Release of Student Records

AIHC School of Biblical Studies maintains student records and assures the confidentiality of such records. Student records are confidential and will be released to persons outside of the school upon written request of the student. School officials in the performance of their professional responsibilities may access student records.

Auditing

You may choose to audit the courses offered at AIHC School of Biblical Studies. You will have access to the class materials, and you can choose whether to participate and complete class assignments. You must register for the course or courses. Auditing is $100.00 per course.

Student Life

AIHC School of Biblical Studies is concern about the spiritual and educational welfare of every student. We are committed to ensuring that all students receive a positive learning experience: an experience that's in accordance with God's purpose for their lives while fulfilling their personal desire to learn more about Him through His holy word. The school's focus on practical ministry realizes that a transmission of facts cannot stand alone in equipping and training the whole man for service. Although theoretical knowledge is given during class time, real life application is encouraged. Students are encouraged to participate in and contribute to the life of a local church. Student life at AIHC School of Biblical Studies promotes church involvement and urges students to take advantage of an opportunity to strengthen their spiritual growth through participation in church activities. AIHC School of Biblical Studies wants to partner with your local church in providing biblical knowledge and training for students to be prepared to render service within the body of Christ.

General Conduct

Students are expected to act in compliance with the rules and regulations that helps to ensure an environment conducive to learning. More importantly, AIHC School of Biblical Studies promotes Christian living and encourages all students to adhere to the teachings of the bible.

Respect For One Another

AIHC School of Biblical Studies will make every effort to promote a peaceful environment; in which, all members of this community are to demonstrate a high level of respect for each other.

Those individuals in leadership should be respected and addressed properly using their proper titles (e.g., President, Dr., Mr., Mrs., or Miss).

Respect is expected to be shown in the classroom and on/off campus events by arriving promptly, giving thoughtful attention, and engaging in material and discussions.

As members of this community, we should seek to show concern and care for others, which should be reflected in how we treat one another (i.e., being courteous, giving encouragement, putting other needs over your own).

In addition, this respect should guide how we communicate on social media. We should refrain from posting complaints about the school, comments that calls into question the character of other students, staff, or faculty, disagreements with individuals, or complaints about unresolved matters/issues).

Appearance and Dress Code

AIHC School of Biblical Studies encourages our staff, faculty, and student body to represent Jesus Christ at all times, which includes physical appearance. In pursuit of Christian character in word or deed, it is our responsibility to demonstrate a commitment to Holy living by dressing appropriately.

Diversity

AIHC School of Biblical Studies desires to be a college where all students have equal opportunity to flourish and experience academic success. It desires to promote unity in Christ and create a respectful environment where all students can learn and grow in their faith. AIHC School of Biblical Studies welcomes diversity and seeks to embrace a student body with unique and distinct cultural backgrounds. I Corinthians 12:12 states, "For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of that one body, being many: so also is Christ."

The school expects the faculty, staff and student body to operate in the spirit of Godly love, thus removing any behavior or speech that would disrupt a harmonious environment.

Non-Discriminatory Statement

AIHC School of Biblical Studies is committed to preparing our students to share the gospel of Jesus Christ all over the world. Galatians 3:28 states, "There is neither Greek nor Jew, bond nor free, male nor female, for ye all one in Christ Jesus. All applicants are welcome to apply for admission at AIHC School of Biblical Studies regardless of race, color, national origin, religion, creed, disability, age, or sex. All applicants are given the rights and privileges generally made available to students at AIHC School of Biblical Studies.

Student Concerns and Grievances

Please refer to the course catalog regarding student grievances and procedures.

Disciplinary System

A student admitted to AIHC School of Biblical Studies accepts the responsibility to conform to all the school's rules and regulations. Failure to meet this obligation will justify appropriate disciplinary sanctions.

In administering any discipline, AIHC School of Biblical Studies is careful not to act carelessly or enforce any sudden or unaccountable changes on students' behalf. Students must be treated fairly and given due process.

AIHC School of Biblical Studies' procedure for disciplining students will work in compliance with the General Order ED025 805 released by the U.S. Department of Health, Education & Welfare. This order views the discipline of students in the educational community. It states:

"The voluntary attendance of a student in such institutions is a voluntary entrance into the academic community. By such voluntary entrance, the student voluntarily assumes obligations of performance and behavior reasonably imposed by the institution of choice relevant to its lawful missions, processes, and functions. These obligations are generally much higher than those imposed on all citizens by the civil and criminal law. So long as there is no invidious discrimination, no deprivation of due process, no abridgement of a right protected in the constitution, and no capricious, clearly unreasonable or unlawful action employed, the institution may discipline students to secure compliance with these higher obligations as a teaching method or to sever the student from the academic community." (pp. 5, 6)

Responsibility and Enforcement:

Trustee Board

The trustee board is responsible for making rules and regulations for the school and establishing policies that govern the conduct of the school, student body, faculty and staff.

The trustee board also orders and directs the president of the school to administer and enforce its policies instituted by its corporate body.

President

The president is entrusted by the trustee board to execute its policies and the internal government and administration of the school. In carrying out this responsibility, the president is granted the authority to take such disciplinary action as in his judgement the circumstances warrant. The president has delegated this function to the Academic Dean.

However, the president reserves the right to retain any case in which:

1. There is an alleged violation of a student regulation where school property has been damaged or destroyed.
2. There is an alleged violation of a student regulation where the conduct in question may threaten the safety of any member of the school community or any school property.
3. There is an alleged violation of a student regulation where the action in question would disrupt the educational process and/or orderly operation of the school.
4. There is an alleged violation of a student regulation where a federal, state, or local law may have been violated.

Disciplinary Procedures

The following procedures will be followed when reports of incidents that alleging violate school policies or student/community life standards have surfaced: Two categories of violations based on the totality of the circumstances are minor infractions and major infractions.

1. Minor infractions
 - a. Reprimand- an oral statement to the student explaining that he/she has violated a student regulation and implies the student's behavior is inappropriate and is not to be overlooked.
 - b. Issuance of a White Slip- a white slip is a written communique' advising the student he/she has violated a school regulation.
 - c. Censure- an official written statement to the student explaining that he/she has violated a student regulation. It is intended to communicate most strongly both the disapproval and the reprimand of the school community.
 - d. In-Kind Restitution- (may include but is not limited to) the reimbursement of costs for damage to, or destruction of, school property or property of any person; restitution in the form of appropriate service to be completed by the student; or required attendance to the appropriate social service or educational program based on the circumstances of the case.
 - e. Social Probation- indicates the behavior exhibited is socially unacceptable. Therefore, a designated period is set, and a specific action plan is agreed upon for the student to take corrective action and adjust behavior to socially acceptable standards.
2. Major Infractions
 - a. Restriction of Privileges: The restriction of school privileges for a specified period. These restrictions may include, but are not limited to the following:
 1. Denial of the privilege to participate in any social events or activities
 2. Denial of the privilege to be elected or appointed as an officer for the student body or organization.
 3. Denial of the privilege to attend school functions on or off school campus.
 4. Denial of the privilege to vote in any school held elections.
 - b. Disciplinary Probation: A specified period of review and adjustment during which a student is under an official warning that his/her violation was very serious. While on disciplinary probation, a student will be "not in good standing" with the school and

- may face specific restrictions on his/her behavior and /or school privileges. Students involved in similar or additional disciplinary incidents while on probation may be recommended for immediate suspension or expulsion.
- c. Disciplinary Suspension: The denial of enrollment, attendance, and other privileges at the school for a specified period. In cases where a student is suspended for the duration of the school year, clearance for re-enrollment must be received from the Academic Dean. Permission to apply for conditions/restrictions. A student who has been issued a disciplinary suspension sanction may be prohibited from visiting on campus or attending all social functions and is deemed “not eligible to return” to the college during the suspension period.
 - d. Expulsion: The dismissal of a student from the school without the ability to apply for re-enrollment. A student who has been expelled is deemed “not eligible to return” to the school for a period of one academic school year. Expulsion requires approval of the president and chancellor.

Please refer to the code of student rights and responsibilities for more information regarding code of conduct, disciplinary procedures, and conditions for readmission.

Other Policies and Events

Commencement

AIHC School of Biblical Studies holds one commencement ceremony during AIHC’s Holy Convention. Students are eligible to attend commencement if they have completed all course requirements and are in good financial standing. Participation in commencement is optional; however, the school strongly encourages students to participate. There is no fee to participate in commencement.

Certificates will be issue to students during the graduation ceremony. If students have not met all their financial obligations nor completed all financial assignments, they will not receive their certificate. A certificate of completion in biblical studies will not be granted until all final assignments are completed, and all financial obligations are met.
