The involved parties will present their information to support their case. After a thorough review of the material presented, the Dean will do the following:

The suspension period will follow a period of disciplinary probation. A student may be allowed to reapply for admission upon the termination of the period with or without conditions/restrictions.

If matters persist or escalate between a student and a staff member or between a student and a professor, or if a student feels he or she has received unfair treatment from an instructor, the student is encouraged to follow the appeal process. If the situation is between students, the student is still encouraged to follow the appeal process.

1. Student must submit in writing your grievance to the Dean for consideration. It must identify the specific reason(s) for the complaint as well as any other information that would help the Dean to understand the situation and determine how to rule on the grievance. The nature of the complaint would determine whether the final ruling is made by the Academic Dean or must proceed to the next step. The following should be included in the letter: date and time of the alleged conflict or action, a summary of the incident, other person(s) involved, and the resolution you are seeking. The complaint must be submitted within 10 business days of the alleged conflict or action.
2. Upon receipt of the written complaint, a conference will take place with the student and the Dean.
3. The Dean will notify appropriate persons and request any information or documentation needed to resolve the complaint.
4. Based on the nature of the incident, the Dean may encourage discussion between the two parties or take appropriate action to resolve the complaint.
5. All relative documentation and possible outcomes must be submitted by the student or other appropriate persons within ten (10) business days of the date the complaint is filed.
6. When possible, the final resolution (or a finding of “unresolved”) will be filed in the Administration Office within fifteen (15) days of the date the complaint is filed. If there are circumstances requiring an extension of this deadline, the Dean or an assigned official will notify the parties involved.

7. If the student is not satisfied with the outcome of the complaint, the Dean and assigned personnel will review the information and recommend a course of action to the President and Chancellor. The decision of the President and Chancellor will be final.

It is understood that unexpected circumstances can occur that may result in an absence. It is the student's responsibility to get all required materials and assignments from any missed class. Permission to make up work can be granted by professors for reasonable cause. It is also the student's responsibility to determine what each professor requires.

1. Other Absences

Students who miss class due to illness, accident or any catastrophic event such as a house fire or a death of a loved one, should notify the dean and professor as soon as possible of the circumstances and the length of time that will be missed. Students will be required to provide documentation. They must also work with their professors to develop a plan to make up missed work.

2. Extended Absences

If students have a medical condition that requires an extended absence from school during the first, second, or third term and they anticipate returning to school during that term, please notify the Dean and their professors immediately. We will need this notification in writing along with a copy of their medical statement. This notification will allow us to make accommodations for the students concerning missed work.

Please note that due to the format of the courses for each term, students may not have the option to make up missed work. In this case, they will be encouraged to withdraw or receive an incomplete for the course or term. Students can resume their studies the following term within the school year enrolled, after notifying the Dean. If students withdraw or receive an incomplete within the school year enrolled, they are required to retake the course or term missed on the following year before graduating from AIHC School of Biblical Studies.

3. Unexcused Absences

Failure to notify your professor or dean of a missed day is automatically considered an unexcused absence. Three consecutive unexcused absences will result in an automatic withdrawal from AIHC School of Biblical Studies.

A student is considered tardy if he or she arrives in class after the attendance is recorded or has begun class or if he leaves before the class hour is completed. Three (3) tardies are counted as one absence.

A student who withdraws from the school year based on medical reasons or an unforeseen event may apply for readmission.

A student who receives an automatic withdrawal due to unexcused absences and wants to reapply to AIHC School of Biblical Studies must notify in writing his or her reason for the absences and lack of notification for those absences. After careful evaluation, a student may be granted permission to apply for readmission.
